A series of clever sayings, gibes, jests and jokes, clipped from the press of the world, about twelve in all.

JUDGE RUMMY in "THE SPONGE MAN."

What do you see in your mind when you hear the word Cuba? The judge visualized bottles, bottles, bottles, of all shapes and sizes, and all containing "real" drinks. Why, they even watered the streets with beer down there, the judge heard. And down to Cuba he went, to try and quench his non-stop thirst. When he reached there, he found that conditions were really up to description. Not only did they sprinkle the streets with beer, but they even bathed in it!

Silk Hat Harry also had a nonskid thirst, and followed the Judge to Cuba. He discovered the judge filling a trunk with the "real thing," and smuggled himself into the trunk. The judge, of course, knew nothing of this, and continued to fill his trunk with the aid of a hose and funnel.

The valuable baggage ready for shipment, he devises a brilliant method of transportation. He tied the trunk to the stern of the steamer, almost losing his life in the attempt. You will enjoy seeing the trials and tribulations in the life of this trunk filled with "hootch" until it reaches the shores of the U S A. Then comes the encounter with the Customs officials.

At last, the crowd is all gathered at the rendezvous, all impatient for a taste of the trunk's contents. The judge inserts a spigot, turns it on, and proudly awaits the flow of liquor. Bitter disappointment is registered on each face gathered there, for nothing comes through the spigot. Somebody suggests that maybe it soaked up. The judge unlocks the trunk, and--

See for yourself, and laugh, at the solution of the mystery.
